Irish Primate Urges End Of Terrorism

BELFAST (CP) - Despite Extraof (CP) — Despite a plea by the Roman Catholic primate of all Ireland to violent men "for God's sake to stop" the terrorism in Northern Ireland and give peace a chance, more bombings and shootings hit the country Tuesday night.

The primate, John Cardinal Conway, in a statement made an impassioned plea for the end of the violence that has taken $4 lives since 1969. The latest death came Tuesday when an 18-year-old British solder died from wounds suffered Sunday When a sniper's bullet hit him in the head.

But after more than 33 years in the municipal fire department — 21 of them as deputy chief — Robbins will hold the top administrative position for only about 10% months.

His short tenure could have posed a tricky problem for Saanich council, almost identical to the one it has just resolved.

Monday the council decided not to extend the retirement date of outgoing Fire Chief Joseph Sutherland beyond Aug. 31. He had asked for the extension to the end of the year because he said this would have increased his pension by $63 a month for the rest of his life. Continued from Page 1

The fabulous Pacific Coast Circle

This magnificent circle tour combines some of our finest interior scenery plus an unforgettable coastal cruise. If you start in Vancouver, the trip opens with a car-ferry cruise across Georgia Strait to Vancouver Island, Then, driving north to Kelsey Bay, you can connect with the M.V. Queen of Prince Rupert for a 20-hour cruise along the sheltered Inside Passage. The trip is more than 300 miles past deepset fjords and tiny fishing villages set in a lush panorama of green mountain forests and deep blue sea. At Prince Rupert, you drive off and follow Highway 16 through a region famed for Indian totem carvings and fabulous opportunities for lakeand-stream lishing, camping and the good life outdoors. To complete the circle, swing south at Prince George through the Cariboo and Fraser Canyon, then head west through the Fraser Valley to Vancouver. Of course, the trip can also be made in the opposite direction, beginning at any of several points including Prince George and Prince Rupert.

The great new Yellowhead Route

This recently modernized route offers great new circle tour opportunities. You can begin in Prince George and travel a smooth ribbon of highway southeast, past the headwaters of the Fraser River and through spectacular Yellowhead Pass . . . all the way to Jasper; then swing south and return home by way of the Rogers Pass. Or, drive north from Kamloops on Highway 5 through a region of fabulous fishing lakes to Tête Jaune Cache (named for the original "yellow head", a blond trapper-who entered the area in 1820) . . . then travel east through Yellowhead Pass. Either way you'll enjoy magnificent mountain scenery, capped by towering Mount Robson, highest peak in the Canadian Rockies This year the Yellowhead route will be discovered by visitors from across the continent -as a British Columbia resident, you're in a perfect position to enjoy its scenic wonders first.

Follow the Rogers Pass to scenic adventure

Acclaimed one of the world's finest scenic Youtes, the Rogers Pass section of the Trans-Canada Highway traverses majestic mountain terrain in its 92-mile sweep between Revelstoke and Golden. The towering peaks of the Selkirk Range . , . sheer rock faces capped by enormous crests of snow . . . vast green valleys appearing suddenly in the mountainscape. A memorable experience in itself, the Rogers Pass also makes possible several exciting circle tours. Travelling north from Kamloops or Banff, you can connect with the newly completed Yellowhead Pass route. Or you can swing south from Golden or Revelstoke for a grand circle that includes both the Kootenay and Okanagan regions. And of course, as part of the Trans-Canada Highway, the Rogers Pass can be part of a much larger "circle" encompassing areas like the Fraser Canyon and the Cariboo.

The spectacular Okanagan-Kootenay Loop

A holiday in the Okanagan or Kootenays can include a circle tour of endless variety. Suppose you begin in Penticton: Driving north you'll see fruit-laden orchards rising above the blue waters of Okanagan Lake, pass charming lakeshore resorts and visit the major centres of Kelowna and Vernon. Then, looping northeast to Revelstoke, the scene becomes more rugged you're on the Rogers Pass route, viewing some of the continent's most spectacular mountain vistas, Next it's south from Golden, along the western rim of the Rockies through the resort centre's of Radium, Fairmont and Windermere, and past the headwaters of the Columbia River - just the beginning of unique attractions in the Kootenays. Historic Fort Steele, the great dams of the Columbia River system, exciting sport fishing, countless opportunities to camp and picnic amid lakes and mountains -- it's a refreshing holiday combination. The final leg of this circle is along Highway 3, wending just north of the International Boundary back to Osoyoos in the southern Okanagan.

The Peace River country and beyond

The Hart Highway is the route to our great northern region. Beginning in Prince George it sweeps northeast nearly 200 miles through magnificent unspoiled territory, traversing the Rocky Mountains on the way to Dawson Greek. Here, at Mile 0 on the Alaska Highway, you're on the threshold of unique scenic adventure. Beyond the rolling grain fields of the Peace lies a region where nature is truly supreme. Sparsely settled, inhabited by a rich variety of wildlife the great mountain-and-forest country adjoining the Alaska Highway offers endless opportunity for camping, fishing and the enjoyment of natural beauty. Two provincial campsites are located along this route, but the distances are vast and it's well to plan your trip with special care. Returning, take a short side trip northwest of Fort St. John and visit the site of the W.A.C. Bennett Dam, one of the great man-made wonders of our province. From here, you can drive directly to the Hart Highway for the trip southwest to the central interior.

Exploring in Cariboo country

Many tours of British Columbia lead through the Cariboo and even travelling nonstop from Prince George to Cache Creek you'll enjoy a rich abundance of the region's special charm. But to truly sever the Cariboo, you should branch off the main highway. Then you'll find guest ranches where the flavor of the Old West still lives, and forest-rimmed lakes where the trout are ready and eager to bite. Swing west at Williams Lake and the scene becomes increasingly rugged as you enter the Chilcotin, Turn east at Quesnel and the view is different again; This is the route to Barkerville, the restored Gold Rush town that's worth a trip in itself . . . and also the way to Bowron Lake Park, where campers and canoeists enjoy a 100-mile circuit of lakes and streams in the midst of unspoiled mountain greenery. Whether you come for camping, ranch life or a few days of exploring, you'll find the Cariboo a low-key sort of place where relaxation is the only rule.

Wanted: A Goal

branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada, made public this week, zeroes in on the fundamental lack from which Greater Victoria suffers. It says: "It is an experience of shock - if not anger-to the intelligent citizen to discover that a current, accepted and comprehensive land - use plan does not exist."

That fact has been pointed out many times in this newspaper. Specific plans for various portions of the community, sewerage or transportation plans for this route or that, do not constitute a comprehensive land-use plan. It is because of this lack that Victoria today sees, for example, the obviously haphazard development of high-rise buildings, some of which stick up like sore thumbs in various isolated parts of the city - unintegrated, unassimilated, unattractive.

It is because of this lack that there is confusion and fumbling over development of the city's inner waterfront. Some proposals are rejected time after time, some are supported. But there is little agreement on what is wanted, no overall standard for what is proposed, and therefore no likelihood that the right thing will be done.

It is because of this lack that successive city councils without an over-all plan fumbled their way into the impasse reached this week, when Alderman Peter Pollen had to buy future freedom from highrises on the Inner Harbor from Johnson Street to Bapco Paint Company at the heavy expense of voting with Council in favor of the Reid high-rise development on Wharf Street near Bastion Square. Now Mr. Reid, an enterprising and persistent developer, will have a lasting monopoly on this type of construction in that area—as fine a gift for persistence as any developer could imagine. Council may not sellthe Johnson Street bridge to the next promoter to arrive but the suspicion is that some members might be persuaded to buy it. This whole spectacular mistake in city planning is the result of not having an over-all program to follow.

Agreement that a route can carry so many cars, that a building will be structurally sound, that so many people will be catered for by such and such a facility - these criteria are localized, they are necessary but they have nothing to do with the over-all concept of what the

THE REPORT OF THE LOCAL atmosphere and feeling of the community is to be. Since this fundamental standard is lacking, it is impossible to say whether this project or that will harmonize or conform with the desired environment.

Under these circumstances, to set up a harbor board, as City Hall is trying to do, or a "marine waterfront authority", as the Community Planning Association proposes, would be to hand over the ship to a crew without giving route or destination. Planners cannot operate under such conditions; civic employees cannot work properly toward the desired end when the end has never been defined.

Until it is, Victoria's future is a precarious one, for it could well succumb to a melange of ideas and cross-purposes, with Council rushing to ensure that some promoter will be able to make a profit here, that the way can be cleared for some non-integrated project there, that concessions will be given to various interests to add to the cityscape merely because they may provide temporary employment in construction without regard to the practical and aesthetic effects.

Next year's mayor and council could win an enviable place in history if they set as their prime objective the formulation - with public participation and all the expert advice they can obtain both locally and from afar - of a comprehensive plan for Victoria which will ensure the best possible use of our resources and establish a recognized type of environment appropriate to our history, our natural location and our probable future. It is alarming that some aldermen do not appear, even now, to understand what the Planning Association is talking

There is no use buying the furniture until it is decided whether the house will be a Tudor mansion, Victorian residence, ranchhouse, stucco family home, mobile dwelling, or whatever. Similarly, it is foolish to dot a city with spasmodic examples of architecture or function - some of which may be excellent, some of which may be long lasting tragedies for lack of initial agreement on what the whole picture should be.

The Community Planning Council's brief is a timely and valuable call to consider these vitally essential matters, to establish some orderly direction in our growth; too avoid errors such as high-rises on Wharf Street. When do we begin?

It was a good project. It has given Cal-garians an amenity which all can enjoy. Such projects are commendable. They give the lie to contentions that the federal program has been little more than a $24.7 million government handout which has produced nothing tangible in return. Certainly, many of the projects ap-proved by Ottawa were questionable, and evident flaws existed in the program.

It is also evident that many of the par-

Even when we went out on the Yangtse River to see the Shanghai commercial shipping, we were turned over to the deputy chairman of the ship's revolutionary committee, though the crew of the ship numbered only four. Army-Civilian Integration

In this sense, it is already much more closely integrated into the political and civilian life of China than would generally be supposed, and few observers here seem to believe there is any danger of the army breaking up into separate competing regional commands under any modern equivalent of the old China war lord struggles.

Oddly, most observers here think the gend of Mao Tse-tung will retain its influence for some years even after his death and might even be stronger in the first few years than it is now.

It is the wisdom and influence of Chou En-lai that most people here seem to worry about losing. For he was the ifying figure during the cultural revolution, and while Lin Plan will undoubtedly see that the legend of the Chairman is perpetuated, nobody is quite clear about who could carry in the future the immense burdens now borne by the

In view of the upcoming vote at the UN concerning the seating of Red China, it is time we put the facts into perspective, including the provisions of the UN Charter signed by 50 nations at the San Francisco Conference on October 15,

Britain Retreats Into Past

By ALFRED FRIENDLY

LONDON — Having long since lost its erstwhile world leadership in matters economic, political and military, Eritain retains it, or has achieved it, in other fields perhaps as important, especially those having to do with social and intellectual problems (which makes it, not incidentally at all, such an incidentally at all, such as incidentally at all, such an in-teresting place to live and re-port from),

It comes as a shock, therefore, to find on accasion that it is a country mile behind other societies in its thinking on some social issues. Race relations is one example, where attitudes and concepts are expressed in terms that are expressed in terms that would not be tolerated as respectable in the U.S.

Law too Soft

Another example of what would seem to be socio-cul-tural lag flared into promi-nence last week when two of-ficers of Scotland Yard—the metropolitan and in effect na-tional police establishment subsequently identified as the assistant commissioner and his deputy, gave an interview to a reporter of The Times of London, in which they sound-ed exactly like a deputy sheriff from West Umbrella-stand, Nevada.

The thesis was that the law was too soft on criminals: sentences were too lenient and prisons insufficiently harsh to deter crimes of vio-

They did not advocate in so many words a return of hanging and flogging, but they fulminated against granting of bail, suspended sentences, paroles and the whole paraphernalia of modern criminal justice.

Unfortunately for the logic of the Scotland Yard men's case, there is no evidence that case, there is no evidence that prison was — or is — a deterrent. Recidivism was eerstainly as great then as now. That pickpocketing flourished in the shadow of the gallows is a truism. That punishment deters others from committing crime or that prison deters the convict from a return to crime is unproved and probably unprovable.

The officers' interview, coming a day after a police chief in the resort city of Blackpool was shot dead during an armed robbery, set off a predictable flurry of letters to the editor, speeches by

The episode will probably be string days' wonder, unlikely to bring back the birch and the rope to merry elde England, But it is a rather startling manifestation from a society, so advanced in other social thinking, of not only the tenacity of discredited folklore but of ignorance of serious current penological

Nevertheless, in the na-tional outpouring of cries for a return to ideas of vengeance and the antiquated notion that, against all evidence, the that, against all evidence, the harsher the punishment the less the crame, a few voices from somewhat more sophisticated souls have been heard. Perhaps the most interesting were two letter-writers to the Times, both concerned with the maintenance of the could father.

... Punishment for orime, suggested one, should not be "a matter of revenge or deterrence or reform" (all such purposes having seemingly failed). "It is a matter of satisfying an inner longing of justice. those of us who do right need to see something impleasant happen to those who do wrong."

SEPARATED BY STATE

China's Lonely Workers

BY NORMAN WEBSTER

SIAN, Shensi Province — In China the state decides one's place of work, and that's that,

Students coming out of university or school are directed to "workposts" according to their skills and the needs of various regions. These days this may often mean an assignment for life on underdeveloped farm land or in climatically rugged border regions.

When the government decides to

When the government decides to develop industry in a region—as it did in Sian and the northwest in the 1950s—if may move skilled labreers and their families on mease from such industralized areas as Shangfai or Manchuria. The interests of the state come well ahead of individual freedom of choice.

If can be argued that these moves are no more dislocating than the frequent shifts of location of workers in North America. There is one type of move, though, which really is tough the one which entails separation of spouses—and it occurs with surprising frequency in China.

The majority of Chinese industrial workers get few holidays. Total annual time off is made up of on free day a week (usually Sunday) and seven national holidays (three af spring festival, two for the country's birthday, one each for the new year and May Day)

Separated spouses are a different matter. They generally receive 15-20 paid days a year, depending on travel time, to return home. The factory pays for a round-trip train ticket.

At the Number One Northwest printing and dyeing factory here, Ma Yukuo, chairman of the plant revolutionary, committee, says that no less than 20 per cent of his 2,000 male and female workers are in the "separated stress". spouse" category. The Techniques of Socialism Won't Bring Economic Freedom

Whatever else the president has accomplished in the first days of his new career as an economic activist, he's gotten a lot of other people to change their minds about a lot of chings.

George Meany has disestablished himself and is talking in the hairy-chested tones of the labor leaders of yore; the Japanese are wondering if they shouldn't take a second crack at Pearl Harbor, and millions of Americans, having experienced the direct and arexperienced the direct and arbitrary power of the state for the first time, are asking themselves what kind of a free society or free economy they actually have.

For people who've been told all their lives that capitalism is the best-guarantor of personal freedom, the wage-price freeze and the rest of it—but particularly the wage-price freeze—has got them thinking. If capitalism can only survive by using the tools and techniques of socialism, then why should socialism be a dirty word?

Disturbing Points

There are also a lot of people who aren't thinking at all; they're simply keening. Yet even in their wailing they bring up disturbing points to which Mr. Connelly hasn't even by the people are all the san't even by the people are all the peo given his loquacious attention.

They're complaining that the administration's economic measures are unfair to the wage and salary worker, not only because there is no limit put on profits, but also because business is going to get a much larger tax break than everyday people.

In reality nobody gives a dam'n if the program is unfair as long as it works and every-fody profits by it. If you've got the standard of living you want, you don't really object to David Rockefeller having three yachts and a private

The difficulty is that what the government is doing can't work very long or very well. It is trying to use the tax laws to encourage people to go out and buy yet more on the instalment plan. The consumer is already heavily into debt; almost a quarter of his after-tax wages is going toward paying off what he owns.

The same thing is true for

The same thing is true for business. Business is in debt up to its ears. Since World War II the amount of cash in the business till has increased by about 70 per cent while the amount of money business owes has gone up about 360.

During the bright years of what they call the new 6co nomics, this didn't seem to matter. Nobody went bankrupt, and if they did, they went to the poorpouse like Bill Zeckenderf, the real estate tycoon, who drove there in a chauffered Rolls' Royce.

A far cry from 1929 when the stockbrokers were throw-ing themselves out of the win-dows, but then Rolls Royce dows, but then Rolls Royce went bust, and Penn Central, too. And many more besides, as is reflected in the fact that in 1970, New York's six largest banks had to write off $167 million in uncollectible loans. Instead of worrying about this situation, the Nixon administration proposed that we should have more of it. The stax laws are to be changed to get companies to go further into debt.

The consequences can be very serious. If this goes on much longer some of our biggest companies are going to be in the same fix as the guy whose wages are being garnisheed by the finance company. The plant produces liquid and gaseous oxygen and nitrogen by breaking down air in a freezing process. The process requires that the plant operate 24 hours a day, and the new schedule had to adapt to the requirement.

Manufacturers Want Lower Gains Tax

By CLAYTON SINCLAIR Financial Times News Service

TORONTO - Finance Min-ister Benson's tax reform bill-got generally warm response from the Canadian Manufacturers' Association this week. But the CMA has some strong reservations about the treatment of international income and the mechanics of the capital gains proposals. Fear also is expressed about provinces being forced into separate tax policies that in the long run would prove unattractive to business. The asswarare contained in the CMA's official submission on Bill C-259. They are the result of two months' work and are described as being "rection.are."

"preliminary." LOWER-BATE

Most of the organization's complaints are not found in the over-all thrust of the legislation. Typical of this is that the group is concerned about the rate of capital gains tax— not the principle of it.

"The 50 per cent rate is much too high, particularly since there is no recognition of inflation over the years," it says. "The tax on property held for many years could well result in an effective rate, in terms of constant dolto ordinary income.

GROSSING-UP The group also argues that the bill's grossing-up provisions may make investment in Canadian companies more attractive to lower income taxpayers, but would have the taxpayers, but would have the opposite effect on those with substantial funds.

"The 33% per cent grossup and credit will have a punitive effect on taxpayers who, supply the greater part of funds for equity investment." "We fear the over-all effect will be a net reduction on, what is available for investment in Canadian equities. An improved dividend tax structure should be formulated, the group says, particularly since the tax rate that will apply to capital gains will already have lessened the attrac-tiveness of growth companies.

The record for last year's expenditures is only one of hundreds of figures provided in a study of the industry done by the chartered accountancy firm of Price Waterhouse and Co.

The study is the fourth of its kind to be done for the Mining Assocation of B.C. from material compiled independently by Price Waterhouse.

The study and an associated information program has cost the mining association $200,000 in the past four years, says Charles Mitchell,

In addition to the 13.850 people directly employed—the rest were employees of mine contractors—the report says that there were 35,000 other workers in B.C. by industries supported by mining expenditures. For Canada, the total becomes 95,000.

Major mining operations in B.C. in 1970 were 54.4 per cent controlled by Canadians, a slight decrease from 1969.

Many Are Still Undecided What Happened to Socreds

EDMONTON (CF .. - What

Many Albertans are asking that question in the dawn of the new political era they created by ending a 36-year courtship with Social Credit and embracing the Progressive: Conservatives led by Peter Lougheed.

There appear to be many reasons for the overwhelming upset by the Progressive Conservatives in Monday's general election. Chief among them, many observers agree, was the desire for change.

The Conservatives hit hard with the theme "It's time for a change." Billboards and plácards signalled "Now", in large capital letters.

After nine provincial general elections in which they voted Social Credit into power, a majority of Albertans heeded the message.

REASONS OFFERED

Party leaders offered various reasons:

Premier Harry Strom, the 57-year-old farmer and rancher who led his party for rancher who led his party for the first time into a general election after succeeding V. Q. Manning in late 1968, said he felt the result was due to the trend for change across Canada. This was the sixth government to fall in the last eight provinctal elections.

Mr. Jougheed, a 42-year old Calgary lawyer who became party leader in 1965 when the PCs held no seats in the legisrcs neid no seats in the legis-lature, attributed much of the Conservatives' success Mon-day to "door-to-door and farm-yard-to-farmyard" Campaign-ing. Most of the victims were the smaller specimens which move around more actively in the water and thus require more oxygen than their bigging that the pipe was "accidentaily or intentionally" taped up Monday night. The pipe's intake hole is accessible at the surface of the water.

"It could have been something as tragically stupid as someone thinking the pipe was leaking and had to be plugged," Wood said. "We've taken to the city dump in ten 25-gallon in containers."

A proposal that Haffiber Park on the B.C.-Alberta boundary be turned over to the national parks system was made today Elton Anderson, executive director of the Fed-eration of B.C. Naturalists.

Anderson also criticized the government for lack of park planning in the Mies dam area, 50 miles west of Hamber Park.

He said about 130 miles of "a. fine major valley" and miles of meadows, lakes and rivers will be drowned when flooding begins.

"There has been little of no park planning in the area," he said. "Surely this should have been done. The parks department should have planned a park near the dam and at each end of the man-made lake and Wood River which originates from Hamber Park."

B.C. parks official admitted no planning has been carried out in the Mica dam and reservoir area.

MANY STUDIES

"Many park studies are under way," he said. "It is a question of priority—which should come first. The Mica-dam district is low on the list."

Anderson said Hamber Park should be increased from 60,585 acres to 265,000 acres (mainly glacial and alpine areas) and incorporated with Jasper National Park to the east.

The enlarged park wauld include the Clemenceau Ice-field, comparable in size to the huge Columbia icefield which adjoins it to the south-east. It measures about 180 square miles and has many high peaks, including the highest, 11,232-foot Tzar Mountain.

This major icefield, Anderson says, should have the protection of park status to prevent undesirabe future development, now that belicopters and snowmobiles are available.

The proposed enlarged park would not conflict with other resources as no commercial minerals have been found in the area, he said. Commercial timber does not grow in the icefield or on alpine plateaus.

But he said some commer-cisl timber along that portion of the Wood River which will not be inundated by the Mica dam should be preserved for the B.C. entrance to the park.

(Hamber Park, at present is only accessible by road from Alberta. The Mica dam lake will permit access to the park via the Wood River.)

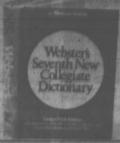

Anderson said the creation of a larger alpine and glacial park and its incorporation into the National Park system (Jasper Park) would provide a wilderness area of great natural beauty.

"If a campsite is established in the Wood River area near the Mica reservoid, two megnificent Rocky Mountain trails would be available to British Columbians," said

Bennett, meanwhile, said it would be "two or three years" before B.C. has another provincial election. After the 1969 election, he said the next election would probably be in 1973.

De Wolf said provincial governments get elected "the hard way" by coming from the opposition. He predicted the NDP in B.C. would be reduced to about 25 per cent of the popular yote in the next provincial election. NDP won 34 per cent in 1969. The Liberals would drop to about 13 per cent from their curent 20, he said.

De Wolf said the Conservatives will try to nominate 55 first class candidates and put Lorward new policy goals. The power change from Social Credit to Conservatives would be akin to the pessing of a baton in a relay race, he said.

Freezing Cadavers Fine But Not Practical Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) - A researcher in the preservation of tissue by freezing said Tuesday it's theoretically possible to freeze the newly dead and re-animate them laterbut he added that practical techniques for doing so are not within even remote sight.

In addition, Dr. Jerome Sherman, a University of Ar-kansas anatomist, told reporti-ers that recently described freezing of human cadavers, in a so-called immortality quest, has made absolutely no contribution to science.

Sherman said that during the last four years, 13 bodies of persons who had died of cancer have been frozen in liquid nitrogen in experiments being conducted by an organi-zation called the Cryonics So-ciety.

He told a news conference that We society has 2,300 members in the United States, most of them in New Yorkow Michigan and the District of Columbia. And he said the society has this concept;

These bodies might be kept preserved in the frozen state until a sure-fire cure for cancer might come along. Then, the concept goes, the bodies would be thawed out and cured of their cancer.

Sherman talked to reporters during the annual meeting of the Society of Cryobiology, a professional organization devoted to promoting research on the effects of low temperature on tiving cells and tissues.

Sherman, one of the world ploneers in freeze-preserving human sperm for later use in producing babies, indicated also he has reservations about current trends to set up-commercial sperm banks, some of which already are in operation.

"L just hope they do it in a scientific manner," said Sher-man; adding there are still many unanswered genetic and other questions about freeze-preserved human specm.

EXPERT'S ADVICE

How You Write On To the Age of 102

Hands up, now, those of you who remember our notes here not too long ago on having lunch at the Union Club and observing the businessman's mind in its native lair? Just as I thought. A very poor attention span there in the back of the room. Always remember that you may be asked questions a.m.

Well, anyway, much to my surprise, having had some sport with mine hosts after a luncheon there. I was invited back with a hearty show of, good fellowship all around, it is now evident to me that businessmen are very good at taking absolutely any joke that doesn't cost them money.

Writers are notoriously unkind to businessmen, probably as a defen-sive mechanism to justify the inefficiency and disorganization of their haphazard methods (Sinclair Lewis, for example, created Babbitt as the most enduring, most hateful proto-type, but Lewis couldn't add up a dinner check and often forgot to put on his socks in the morning.)

It is also true that businessmen have little or no concept of how well-ers operate and this, as we shall see, abundantly clear at the

We had hardly been introduced, joked with the motherly waitress and ordered our fillet of sole before the Efficiency Expert turned to me with a shark-like smile and remarked, "So you're the columnist, sh? Boy! You fellows certainly have a sweet life!"

I favored the Efficiency Expert with a profile new of the 5c that pulses under my left eye, nervously brushed the imaginary lint from niy lapels and bade him continue. "Con-tinue." I said, dimpling.

Three little columns per week," the Efficiency Expert said, wonderingly, "Why, I dictate more than that every day

I murmured something about the demands of a m less fresh idea each day, the rope on which to string the wooden heads, and mentioned the perils of snow blindness which affirsts so many columnists facing the unsoiled waste of copy-paper on those days when the idea isn't there. It was purply metaphors but I didn't core. mixing metaphors, but I didn't care.

The Efficiency Expert drew a genuine silver pencil from his broast-pocket and began to mark figures on the table-cloth, a thing I had seen before only in movies.

"How far are you shead with your columns?" he asked,

"Sometimes I am an entire day ahead," I said, deten-sively, like a man trying to establish a credit rating, "and as recently as 1965 I was two entire columns ahead."

"Just as I thought," the Expert cried, "You aren't going at it in a business-like way. Now" — he began to write rapidly on the table cloth with his genuine silver pencil — "Your yearly average for columns, allowing for the customary three week vacation, would be 147 columns, right?"

"If you say so," I said, "Nit it's an exhausting thought."

"Let us say, now, that you were to write two columns each and every duy for a year, right? That would mean that you would do 730 columns in a year which would give you a surplus of 583 columns. In 10 years you would have accumulated a stockpile of 5,830 columns — or nearly 39 years

"Good God!" I said.

How old are you?" the Expert asked.

I told him. He scratched some more figures on the table ... cloth.

"Right! On this recommended schedule when you reach the age of 65 you will have esough columns written to keep appearing in the paper until you are 102 years of age—without writing another line!"

"It's frightening." I said.

"If hoggles the imagination," I said.

."How long's it take you to write a column?" The El-ficiency Expert asked, caught up in the miracle he was creating.

"Well," I said, "not counting the incubation of the idea, it generally takes six to eight hours. Most of this time is spent watching the construction of the new Victoria Press building next door, walking back and forth to the soft-drink machine and eating Eberhard Faher Ehony pencils."

"All that would go if you applied husiness principles to your operation," he said. "Waste motion, as our time studies show, is the root of inefficient production. You must program yourself to a planned output—let's say 500 words per hour. The man with the definite objective is the man who gets the

"All pretence," snapped the Efficiency Expert. "Any businessman could organize your kind of writing just as he organized an accounting office. I wouldn't be at all surprised, in fact, if the whole operation couldn't be computerized."

Well, I'd have killed him right there, but, of course, there are certain things you just don't do in the Union Club.

VANCOUVER - The Toronto Argonauts had this winning streak going, four straight, and an interviewer said to Frank Johnson, an assistant coach with the team:

"Well, just how good are you?"

Johnson pondered the question only briefly, and replied to Jack Wells of Winnipeg: "Frankly, I don't know. Up to now we've had everything going for us; we've had no turnovers, no fumbles, no interceptions, so its' difficult to tell."

This was immediately before Sunday's football argument with the B.C. Lions, and if it was a straight answer from an old pro, there might even have been a hint of impending disaster, Because, in essence, what Johnson was saying was the Argos hadn't really been tested, or forced to buck the odds.

Besides, it was fast becoming evident that if that Argos were as truly skilled as their record indicated, the league schedule would be no contest. But no sconer had Johnson spoken than he must have had the feeling of having put his foot in his mouth. For on the very first running play of the game, the much-feared Leon McQuay, the Argos newly-found speedster, fussibled. Fortunately, the Argos got the ball back, that time, Such was not to be the case later.

was not to be the case later.

Twice again they bobbled the ball, and they got burned both times severely.

The first time Bob Howes grabbed it, lugged it all of a yard, and the Lions had a touchdown.

The next occasion was rather late in the day. The Argos were on the move. The Lions were in trouble. Then suddenly quarterback Greg Barton forgot the football on a span from centre. Garrett Hunsperger jumped on it, and the Lions had been spared. In retrospect, perhaps it was the play that decided the ball game.

To keep the record straight the Lions also took advantage of one of those pass interceptions. Ted Gerela got a chance to kick a 48-yard field goal because of it, and scored.

If football is a game of bounces, the Lions were getting all of them. Which they weren't against Calgary in their previous outing. In that one they had nine turnovers, and lost 32-1. This time they had only one — interception, compared to the Argos' five.

32-1. This time they had only one — interception, compared to the Argos' five.

So, it does make a difference.

But if the Argos were beaten, their reputation is still unsullied. They are basically an explosive club, and the vast publicity given to their expensive imports is well merited.

Their name players came through almost as expected.

Quarterbacks' Barton and Joe Theismann split their duties religiously. Their was no deviation in the Argo game plan in that regard. In the coach's eye, they were of equal stature.

Theisman, the All-American boy from Notre Dame, is stature.

The sman, the All-American boy from Notre Dame, is probably the thrill type. He can run as well as pass, and he does the unexpected in a scrambling, exciting fashlon.

Barton is the solid, well-drilled, drop-back National Football League stylist. There is little fancy staff. His patterns come out of the book — the book of experience. Take your pick. It's a toss-up. Because even there, Johnson couldn't for wouldn't) attempt to break the tie. "They've both been great," he said.

Then there is McQuay. He is the prize catch of the lot for the Argos. He runs looking for daylight, and often finds it. He didn't find it against the Lions, but there was a reason.

The Lion game plan was simple: It was "Stop McQuay!"

This they succeeded in doing, up to the point that McQuay was contained before he got out in the open. This was the key, Believe it. He isn't easy to collar, Still, the Argo quarterbacks may have erred by using McQday too much, and neglecting Bill Symons. Here is another breaksway rumer, an all-star. But he was used sparingly, Why? There is no logical explanation except that McQuay had been more or less unstoppabel until he got to Vancouver. The Symons case has given cause for dissent, rumors to that effect have been denied.

Meanwhile, there also is Dave Raimey. Here is a fellow who once had the speed and the moves to beat everyone else on the field, and sometimes did. A past CFL rushing leader, Raimey doesn't even figure on the offensive Argo team this year. He's been used strictly on defence, and for running back kicks. Reportedly, he is resigned to his fate. He has even said he'enjoys his new role.

But if Kaimey has given way to McQuay, then how good is McQuay?

"Me's good." offered Johnson, "but he's not Leo Lewis."
This was a reference to one of the greatest of all CFL runhers, whose repute never exceeded his accomplishment.
Still, McQuay is not an untipical case. He's great only as long as he has the football: The idea is to keep it away from him, or key on him, as the Lions did.

Besides, the Argos gave away the football on Sunday.
That has to be sperificant, no matter how good they are

That has to be significant, no matter how good they are.

LONDON (CP) Does a homing pigeon ever get lost? Maybe briefly but not for ever, says an expert, soothing the pangs of Britain's frantic pigeon fanciers who watched 29,000 of the feathered racers take off and now fear that somehing has gone wrong with their radar.

The birds, valued at a total of some $750,000, failed to reach home after three days on a 150-mile fogbound run. The faithful began to question that rescollable claim that just as the Canadian Mountie always gets, his man, the British pigeon always makes it home.

"It could be the worst disaster in the history of pigeon racing," said Harry Bexon, Secretary of the North End Fed-eration, one of the big Derbyshire pigeon clubs.

Pigeon racing, started in 1896, is big-sport in Britain. Last Saurday 20,000 birds were released simultaneously from points in the north of England to race for honors to homing grounds in the Midlands

After four hours, worried officials reported only about 30 pigeons had homed in their lofts. The others, trainers and breeders concluded, may have run into bad weather and, as Bexon explained, "lost their way, unbelievable as it may sound for pigeons.

"They now could either be in Sootland or even on the Continent," he surmised.

'Homing pigeon racing will take a long time to recover from the disaster."

India Now Has Problem Of Plenty

Final government estimates show production of foodgrains in the 1970-1971 period amounted to 107,810,000 tons against a requirement of 94 million tons for a population of 550 million, and a projected production of 105 million tons. After allowing 12.5 per cent of 13,500.00 tons, for seed, feed and wastage, the country now is self-sufficient for the first time since independence, officials say.

first time since independence, officials say.

The nearly eight million East Pakistani refugees in India would not pose much of a problem as far as food is concerned either, though they are expected to consume one million tons of foodgrains in one year, food ministry officials say.

Production of most cereals showed increases during the last year but it is the big-jump in wheat production-from 20.1 million tons to 23-25 million tons—that has landed grain—handling—agencies in troubts.

The government started building new storage facilities. Schools and unoccupied buildings are being temporarily used as warehouses.

At some places, grain bags are just stacked on temporary platforms and covered with nuge polythene sheets.

But there have been several charges in newspapers and Parliament of hundreds of chousands of tons of wheat-rotting in the open.

Lawyers Talk Their Problems

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Canada's top lawyers assessed problems and solutions Tuesday in an attempt to improve the nation's legal system.

Members of the Canadian Bar Association continued their second day of section meetings—as many as a dozen at a time on various legal problems in their fiveday convention.

The discussions ranged from how to deal with the battered child syndrome to overproduction of law graduates. Most sessions produced more questions than answers.

In a session on children and the law, delegates were told lawyers must make greater efforts to product the interest.

Make Safety Record of Major Roads Available, Says Researcher

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian public has a right to know the safety record of every major road in the country and MPs have a duty to supply the figures, says Dr. Harold Elliott, Montreal neurosurgeon and traffic accident researcher.

At present, the information is simply not available. Inquiries by Dr. Elliett to assorted government departments and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics about traffic deaths on various highways and roads have been fruitiess.

"Since the MPs represent the people in their electoral ridings," he said in an interview, "one would think that the least the MPs could do would be to have the death rates in their constituencies. This was not so.

"One would also think that the death rates across the sountry should be the same. No rates are available. How then can any government truly represent people when none of its scientific institutions have taken the trouble to estimate the death rates on the Trans-Canada Highway,

For example, a 27-month study of six counties sur-rounding Ottawa showed that 56 persons had been killed on Highway 17, a section of the Trans-Canada.

Are there other highways as dangerous as No. 177 The neurosurgeon said no one knows.

Students Hear Black Skin Not Inferior

MONTREAL (CP) - Students who attended an all-black summer school here learned, many of them for the first time, that the color of first time, that the color of their skin does not signify in-feriority.

"Somehow or other, you get to feeling that because you are black you are inferior," said Donovan Knights, a stu-dent who came to Canada several gears ago from Trini-dat.

"It's great to come to a school like this and be made to realize that you're not, and that there are all kinds of things you can do starting with going to university."

Donovan was one of 150 atti-dents who attended the six-week school held for the see-ond summer at the High School of Montreal.

"We know of many cases where guidance officers advised black students that it would be a waste of time for them to pursue an academic program in high school because they would orose up to cause they would grow up to be janitors and dancers any-way," said Winston Henry, one of the school's teachers.

UNIVERSITY BULED OUT When Donovan arrived from Trinidad with his family, he was placed in a "practical" course by a guidance counsellor who did not bother to explain that this would prevent Donovan from acquiring the aubjects necessary for university admission.

All the students at the school attributed much of their new self-confidence to the black teachers who instructed them.

Of the 75 students who attended last year's session, 49 went on to junior college, and, of the remaining 26, all but one are in high school working towards university admission.

The school was organized last year by the Board of Black Educators, a group formed two years ago by blacks in the education field.

Last year McGill financed the project but this year it shared the cost with Sir George Williams University, Loyola College, the two English-language junior colleges Vanier and Dawson, and the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal,

All-Points Bulletin For Lawyer

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP).

Authorities have lasued an all-points bulletin for Stephen M. Bingham and charged the 36-year-old lawyer with five counts of murder in connection with a San Quentin prison-escape attempt Aug. 21.

District Attorney Bruce Bales: accused Bingham of smuggling a gun to George Jackson, a black militant convict killed in the attempt.

Bales told a news conference after filing the murder complaint that Jackson underwent a thorough "skin search" before meeting Blocham.

GUN CAME FROM WIG

Prison officials say Jack-on, one of the three Soledad son, one of the three Soledad Brothers awaiting trial for the murder of a white guard at Soledad prison, pulled a pistol from a wig and took a guard hostage after returning from the visit, with Bincham.

The complaint said that within half an hour after Jackson pulled the gun, three guards were dead in Jackson's cell. Two were killed by gunshot wounds in the back of the head, and one by throat slash.

The hodies of two convicts were found in the cell area, idiled by deep cuts to the

Bales said the charges against Bingham are based on the same Catifornia complici-ty law under which black mil-itant Angela Davis is accused murder, kidnapping and inspiracy in an Aug. 7, 1970, octout that took four lives the Marin County court-buse. CYC Seeks 'Quick' Second Look

OTTAWA (CP) — The Com-bins of Young Canadians, ecommended for the scrap heap by the special commit-ee on youth, fought back lessed with charges that the ecommendation was based on outfated information and hat mess coverage of the narrow."

Dal Broadhead, executive director of the CYC, called a news conference to appeal for a "quick second look" at the company which, he said, is a far cry from the original Company of Young Canadians.

Ined the CYC nearly two years ago, the company has a new council, new staff and new volunteers. He said the committee had not visited the CYC since it was reorganized, although it had sent in four Toronto sociologists, none of whom spoke French.

Mr. Broadhead said the committee, which presented its report to State Secretary Gerald Feltetier last week, looked at the CYC as it used to operate, and based its report "on a hell of a lot of mistakes." Ined the CYC nearly two takes."

He said the CYC no longer sends volunteers into the field "to do their own thing," but rather they are working with local groups who want to do something about their existing situating.

situation.

Five years of tough experience, including many mistakes, "has equipped us with a strength and competence which is not recognized except by the local people who work jointly with us in the development of projects."

Mr. Broadbead said parts of the youth report were middle-class, and the press reaction to it was decidedly middle-class.

Giant Celebration

By RALPH JOSEPH-

TEHRAN (CP) Iran is passing through one of the hottest summers it has had in recent years, but officialdom and workers are not letting this come in their way as preparations for the 25th centenary celebrations of the monarchy, in October, are stepped up. It's certainly going to be the biggest thing since the coronation in October, 1967.

Though there are elements of a Hollywood spectacular in the set-up, the ideological nature of the coming event was underlined by a chance remark by the Shah recently: If the Communista can have their May Day celebrations every year, why can't we have ours once in a lifetime.

The 'message, emphasized repeatedly, is: The Iranian monarchy is the oldest on earth and is here to stay, Monarchies elsewhere on the globe have been tumbling rapidly all round—most recently in Greece, Libya and Iraq. TEHRAN (CP) Iran idly all round most recently in Greece, Libya and Iraq. PERSONAL POWER

The Shah's personal power has grown tremenflouisly in the last 18 years. Opposition to the monarchy today is much subdued, within the country, and the most during student protesters will at best scribble up anti-monarchist slogans on havatory walls.

With SAVAK—the State Intelligence and Security Organization, and one of the country's most efficient bureaus—to keep them miormed, it is not surprising to find the authorities answering even subdued criticism. Court Minister Asadollah Alam did so recently when he told a television audience that private contributions, and not public funds were being spent on the lavish celebrations.

SAFETY VALVES Moreover, some rather subtle "safety valves are being built into the celebrations themselves to offset criticism.
For example, 2,500 schools are being built, with the help of contributions from moneyed groups, to commemorate the event.
This should forestall the criticism: "If all that money were spent on building schools
yete." SAFETY VALVES

Then, government sources, told the press recently that the colorful tent city, being built at the enclent capital of Persepolis to house the royal guests in October, will be jurned over for use of tourists when the celebrations are over.

The published list of guests attending the celebrations in October has a few surprises of its own. It may have been plain eliquette that dethroned king Constantine of Greece was included, but among the more unlikely names included its that of Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny, who hope has been expressed that even Chou En-lai way turn up, if Iran recognizes China by then.

Iran recognizes the any then.

If the monarchy feels secure so indeed must Prime Minister Amir Abbas Hoveyda's Iran Novin party, which has just won a thumping victory at the rolls. There have been no public charges of rigging though, with the press so tightly controlled, one would not have expected any. However, Hoveyda did not need to rig the polls. The Mardom party, very much the To y $\tilde{a}$1 opposition, contested only 50 per cent of the xeats and then put up a half-hearted

The over-all impression one

The over-all impression one gets from the political scene is that what divides the ruling Iran Novin party from the opposition Mardom party are personality differences, rather than policy ones.

With parliamentary politics so much lacking in sparkle, then, perhaps the country does need speciacular events, such as the coronation and the mobarchy celebrations, to liven things up givery now and then.

ONE-PARTY SYSTEM

Hovey da may have arranged this himself, to prevent the image of a one-party system emerging. The monarchy has shown preference for a multi-party system. But if the Mardom party had to be practically coaxed back into its Madils (parliament) seats.

Chair a status symbol in office

The Asexual Chair Is Dethroning Seats of Power

By ANN DUNSMUIL

Remember the time when chairs — like society — had two sexes?

Before the emancipation of women, men's chairs had arms, tall backs, overstuffed upholstery and lordly proportions.

Like their occupants, they were expected to dominate.

Women's chair.

Women's chairs were lighter, smaller, and armless. Lounging in them was an impossi-armless. Lounging in them was an impossibility.

Father might slouch in his armchair after a hard day's work, but mother was expected to sit bolt upright.

Today, chairs are asexual. They make no allowance for rank er anatomical difference.

To the creators of the modern living-room chair, mother has equal rights — and so do the children.

There's one exception, however. The reclining chair, like a living fossil, still lingers in many Victoria homes.

"They are our best seller," a local salesman said. "Young people buy them because they are cheap (about $79).

"But when they can afford to redecorde, the poor wife finds the husband won't part with the hideous thing."

Status in Business

Although the importance of the chair as a status symbol has almost disappeared in the home, it's still firmly entrenched in the business world.

ness world.

An executive, lounging in red-leather splendor, like a French king dispensing favors at Verseilles, can indicate the smaller, harder chair in front of his desk with charming affability.

He doesn't have to act the "heavy" — it's choices wino's who.

He doesn't nave to act the heavy obvious who's who. Chairs have always indicated status, ac-cording to Dr. Alan Gowans, chairman of the department of history in art at the University of Victoria.

riority," he said." A chair with back and arms equals a throne."

Gowans believes it's 'Impossible to separate ideology and usite." As an example, hecited the vogue during the 30s and early 40s of turniture made from tubular steel and plastic.

Gowans described the era as a "socialist ase" when people longed for economic equality.

"People knew that if all the wealth in the world was divided equally, everyone would stave, but they were confident that science would soon solve the problem," he said.

Taste for Plastic

The belief in science as the savior of man-ied to a taste for furniture made of plastic-glass and steel that suggested the laboratory and applied science. Gowan explained. The art historian thinks the present taste among young people for sitting on the floor is yet another example of ideology injuencing style.

yet another example of ideology influencing style.

"Today, the longed-for society is one where everyone is equal," Gowan said-And social equality means the abolishment of all vertical structure.

"This means sitting on the floor, because even when chairs are of equal size and shape they still tend to arrange themselves in a pecking order," he explained. Gowans also pointed out that this desire for social equality includes a dislike for science and man-made materials.

"Science is associated with pollution," he Glowans described the trend as a "back to the earden of Eden" movement.

"in a truly egalitarian society we would all sit on the floor in the nade," he said.
"Clothes, like chairs, are a status symbol."

This is the pattern of a large group of underachieving high school students. Their hard work seemingly does not result in the permanent memory needed to make high scores on tests. Something different in a Vic-Something different in a vic-toria Art Gallery showing — a . Purchasers' Exhibit — is scheduled for next Tuesday and will continue to Sep-tember 26.

Now, don't get the idea this exhibit is designed as enticement for you to buy. On the contrary, it's a selection of paintings already purchased through the gallery's picture loan-rental service.

Picture rentals, organized and conducted by the women's committee, has long been one of the gallery's most popular services. Many paintings in this category can be bought, as well as rented.

To give the public some idea of the range of art avail-able (it's confined entirely to Canadian artists) women's committee members under Mrs. R. S. Conn, have been busy borrowing a selection from works acquired permanently by renters during the past 14 years.

Paintings are being bung in the Centential Wing and the exhibit will be opened by Dr. R. M. Lane at 8.p.m.

Half an hour later, in the Kearley and Spencer galler-ies, first rental of the season will begin, after a view ses-sion that afternoon from 2:30

Those in charge claim this will "undoubtedly prove the most fascinating to date."

At the moment, Mrs. R. L. Alexander, picture rental convener, with members of her committee, are busy catalogu-ing more than 80 new paint-ings and graphics to add to the present rental collection.

Artists Known

Many of these are by such nationally known artists as A. Y. Jackson. Roy Kiyooka. Donald Jarvis, John Korner. Jack Wise, Brian Fisher and Claude Tourseimant. Claude Toussignant

The picture ioan service (exclusive privilege of gallery members) started. April 1, 1957, under guidance of Mrs. Conn. Mrs. E. A. Gudewill and Mrs. Trevor Houser, and with the encouragement of gallery director. Colin Graham, who saw it as a new timession of gallery interest.

The rental service was given a loan of $500 to cover usurance.on. paintings. and other incidentals, including large cotton bags for each picture leaving the gallery.

Biographies of the artists were prepared and it was decided that each one would receive 80 per cent of a rental and the same amount if a picture sold.

Returned Loan

At the end of the first year, the service returned the $500 loan and after payment to ar-tists, had a kitty of $29.50.

This year, there was $1.400 in the kitty. That money is also returned to the artists, as it is used to help finance selective purchases—of their works.

works.

These purchases baually join the 278 or more paintings in the rental service collection for a year or two, before becoming a part of the gallery's permanent collection.

When the first picture loan was inaugurated, 100 paintings were hung and 35 were rented. Today, approximately 175 paintings go out on rental each month.

Four ships of the Canadian Navy take pictures regularly. There is also an office rental, started back in 1964 on a suggestion from gallery board member Claire Copeland.

Turkey, She Says, Isn't Just Winter

By JEAN SHARP CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP)-You don't have to roast a turkey. You can cut it up and simmer it as you might a chicken. You can cook it on the barbecue spit, stuffed or unstuffed. If you do roast it you don't have to use your heavy, Christmas dinner stuffing. There are lighter, fresher varieties.

Dorothy Batchellor of the Poultry Products Institute says she recommends roasting turkeys without dressing in the summer because it cuts the cooking time.

"You can knock five minutes per pound off your total cooking time. On a 10-pound bird, that's almost an hour."

A summer-weight 1e m on suffing in quantities to fill a boned leg or breast (about 3 pounds), calls for 2% cups soft fine bread crambs, 2 to 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 14 cup finely chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste, VERSATILE BIRD

Student Freed

PALMI, Italy (AP) — Kid-nappers released an Italian university student Sunday after his family paid a report-ed $40,000. ransom. The youth, Francesco Bagala, had been abducted while on an outing with his girlfriend Aug. 16. There had been about a dozen kidnapoines in this Calabrian kidnappings in this Calabrian region in the last year. All victims have been released.

MOERS, West Germany (Reuter) — A barking schnauzer, a German breed of despite the fact that they shot

tle, reduce the heat, and continue simmering until the tur-key is tender. An eight to 20-pounds out up turkey will cook in 1% to 2½ hours.

Cool it slightly and remove the meat from the bones. Meat and broth will keep in the refrigerator for about three days and both can be trozen for use any time.

USE A MIX

Mrs. Batchellor says you can make a gravy and serve it hot, use a mix for, quick stroganoff or tetrazini. Make a tossed saind, a bean saiad or a fruit saiad.

If you want to barbecue tur-key, you can use the whole bird or a quarter section.

"You can barbecue on a spit an eight to 10-pound un-stuffed turkey in 2% to three suffed turkey in 2½ to three hours.

"You must truss them well so they're firm and compact and make sure they're balanced well on the spit.

"Don't put barbecue sauce on until the last minute because it scorches. You don't have to put it on at all."

Mrs. Batchellor says people complain to her that turkey is dry and tough.

"It it's dry, it's overcooked. There's not much fat in white meat and if you, cook it too long, it drains out and the meat gets tough. You don't notice it so much in dark meat, because it has more fat in it."

She says you can thaw a frozen turkey, then refreeze it fafter it has been cooked. She says you can freshen the flavor of frozen, cooked turkey by thawing it with lettuce.

"Put the unwrapped frozen meat in a shallow pan between layers of lettuce or cabage, put a lid on the pan and put it in a 350 oven until the turkey is thawed and it tastes like fresh meat. You can chill it or serve it warm."

If you want to take a frozen, raw turkey traveling with you say you can earry it in a picnic cooler, It will start thawing, as it does in the re-frigorator. frigegator,

Bowling Alley Permit Issued

A three-month delay in con-struction of a $200,000 bowling alley in Sidney came to an end with issue of a building permit to developer Harry

Victoria businessman The Vectoria businessman submitted a swritten agreement to provide 22 off-street parking spaces for his 12-lane bowling alley on Fifth Street and received permission to build a single-storey building. But troubles are not yet over for Welch and his backers, the Sidney Bowling Association, because plans call for a two-storey building.

HEARING

A public hearing on Sept. 7 will help Sidney council to dis-cuss amendments to a bylaw to permit living quarters to permit living quarters above the alley. This will be the kecond bylaw to be amended for the bowling alley application.

A request of a bowling alley permit in May prompted Sid-ney council to change the bylaw governing parking re-quirements in commercial zones. But interpretation of this-aw which required one-reach 150 parking space for each 150 square feet of public floor area caused problems. Council finally agreed that bowling alleys themselves should not be counted as public floor space.

TWO FLOORS

Then Welch proposed building a two-storey instead of single-storey building. It was found that use of the second floor as a clubroom would necessitate, more off-street parking spaces than would be available.

Finally one Jaderman suggested that the second floor be classified as living quarters requiring only two parking spaces.

quarters requiring only two parking spaces.

Municipal bylaws, however, stipulate living quarters must be behind, not above, commercial premises.

The public hearing on Sept. 7 is expected to settle this issue.

Lobbying on behalf of Welch. Sidney businessmen George Howard and Jim

Howard said Monday he is confident that "this last small cloud" will disappear and the lanes will be in use, by Jan-uary of 1972.

Evidence that Canadians are feeling basically prosperous, in spite of unemployment and inflation, may be drawn from the fact that, nationally, 73 per cent of them are satisfied with their current standard of living. At the same time, many millions (23 per cent) claim theirs is unsatisfactors.

Levels of contentment depend upon the type of occupation citizens have. Most satisfied are those in the sales forces, and in clerical work, where the ratio is almost nine-in-ten. Executives and professional people are close behind with over eight-in-ten reporting that their financial situation is satisfactory. But among those men and women in the skilled and unskilled Labor segments, or who live on farms, the level drops sharply to less than-seven-in-ten who-feel their standards of living are good.

A similar study in Britain reveals that Canadians are considerably more content with their living standards than in the U.K.

The question:
"IN GENERAL, WOULD YOU SAY YOU ARE SATISFIED, OR DISSATISFIED WITH YOUR STANDARD OF LIVING?"

SEA POLLUTION BY MERCURY SHAKES HOLLAND

BELFAST (CP) — In Leeson Street they call him John Wayne but his fellow officers in the British Army say the slim major is a fine military man rather than a swaggering

Take a typical day in Leeson Street, a riot-shattered neighborhood of Belfast full of Roman Catholics caught up in the latest phase of Northern Ireland's troubled history.

ing place of local characters,
The Long Bar,
When the British major walked in with a circle of armed soldiers, there was pandemonium.

Journalists, cautiously trelling behind the foe-cool officer, were singled out as his proteges and were invited by burly regulars to make a quick exit.

The Catholics in Lesson Street, their cramped houses a forlow haven for traditionally large families, have come sible.

Everywhere in Leeson and neighboring streets are the remnants of shattered household articles. Yet these also are open to varying interpretations, since they might merely be the raw material of rebell barricade-building rather than a legacy of the thrutally destructive army teams said by the Catholics to have been ranging through their neighborhood.

Most of the mobile patrols which penetrate the inside streets of the Catholic Falls. Road area, including Leeson Street, are the armored-car variety.

Pioneer Flyer Punch Dickins Comes Out of Clouds

Pioneer Canadian flyer Punch Dickins -- after a lifetime in the cloudshas alighted in a nintfi floor Oak Bay suite.

The great ones, like Funch, his friend W. R. Wop May, Grant McConachie and Herbert Hollick-Kenyon became newapaper heroes years ago through their northern exploits.

And now in 1971, here is Punch Dickins in Victoria, after five years of retirement and regular golf dates.

Here in a comfortable apartment with his wife Connie and museum-piede mem orabilia is the former Edmon

But full-time flying in the unmapped north was serious business for Dickins.

Punch Dickins — he can't recall how he got the nickname — in January 1929 started the first airline north of Edmonton, working out of

That same winter, which brought 60 below temperatures, Dickins was the first to fly northern Mackenzie River furs to market in Winnipeg in furs to market in Winnipeg in the trapping season. He set a record for an 800-mile round trip from McMurray to Ft.... Resolution in a single day, achieving in nine hours what took 28 days by dog team and 6 days by boat on the Slave and Athahaska rivers.

He was the first pilot to navigate the Mackenzie's length to Aklavik hard by the Arctic Ocean. The arrival scene was like this: A'By the light of the midnight sun, on

Sees Changes

"I thought of my rather pleasant flight of three days from Edmonton and pecalied again what the airclane was going to medi and the changes it would bring in the lives of people in these northeon fegions," he wrote.

In October 1929, Dickins unwittingly exposed prospector

The high, rocky island they

In his day, Punch recalled, he flew to Resolute only once.
Development of the North speaks for itself, he feels, and Canada can still show leadership in the design and uses of specialized aircraft.

"There is an unlimited fu-ture for aircraft in Canada. The opportunities for any young man who wants to get into the business are unlimited, too. Except he'll have to work-for it."

The Real Story of Wyatt Earp ... Er, Maybe

Did you know Wyatt Earp⁰ was g bad guy? No foolin', folks, it's true.

They went and made a movie all about him and his pal Doc Holliday, the way Frank-Perry tells it, Wyatt and Doc were no-good gunmen.

Wyatt wore a star and Doe Wyaft wore a star and Doe dealt a mean hand of five card stud; didn't get beat much either, on the poker table or on the draw.
They drank and cussed a lot, and Doc — well, he shacked up with Katle Elder. She was supposed to be some

She was supposed to be some kind of lady the way most people hear it. But they ap-parently didn't hear it the way Perry did.

A HOOKER

Perry has her pegged as a hooker in Tombstone, Arizona, Now, maybe she was, and maybe she was, and maybe she was, and he's made some pretty fine movies, so it must be so.

Perry picked some powerfut alent to play in his show, and they're fun to watch, even if they are bad.

Doc's the star, he's played

The two federations have been meeting for the last week and had set a Tuesday morning deadline for settling the issue. But by Tuesday night the two groups had not only failed to reach agreement, but were involved in a dispute over just who has the right to settle the issue.

The final challengers' match is to be held in late September between grandmasters Böbty. Fischer of New York and Tigran Petrosian of the Soviet Union.

The U.S. federation wants the match held in Buenos Aires, Argentina, while the Russians are pressing for Athens, Greece.

With the vegetables and fruits now at their peak of perfection, gardeners will feel the urge to try for an extension of the producing season. Some will have grown quantities of offe-or two kinds so that enough will be put away in the freezer for the whole winter. But offiers, will want a continuation of fresh produce.

A greenhouse without heat, or a farge, well built coldrame can be utilized for raising small crops of vegefables almost continuously. Only prolonged cold spells would spell down for such a project.

Early September is a fine time to make the first of these "protected" sowings. With the fresh compost soil veplacing the previous worn out or hard packed soil, seeds sown now will germinate readily in the shelter of the structure, either trame or greenhouse.

frame or greenhouse.

The soil will be warm from the sun, and must be kept gently watered enough to promote germination and growth.

Ventilation must also be abundant while present weather

This means that while at night you may need to close the greenhouse door to keep out four footed marauders, have all other ventilators open—screened if necessary for protection.

A coldframe glass cover at night can be raised at all corners by resting on wood blocks or half bricks. A lath frame (to fit the coldframe opening) covered with one-inch chicken wire will prevent damage to young seedlings during daytime when the glass must be removed.

Smell sowings are recommended for a first year trial; keep a notebook with names of varieties of vegetables used, dates sown, details of weether as complete as you can manage for both day and night; also progress of the plants and when ready for use.

Experimentally, sow about 18 sects of an early spring cabbage. As you eat your summer cabbage now as cole slaw you realize never again will you be satisfied with one from winter storage.

There is a cabbage called Salad Green, only five inches or so in diameter. Another whorthwhile cabbage for trial in a cold greenhouse is Chinese hybrid called Springtime of the Wang Hold bind.

wong Book kind.

More sure of results will be cool weather lettuce such as Grand Rapids Forcing, or one called Jack Frost. An oldtime variety is All-the-Year-Round, very good; and continuity a favorite with crinkled reddish leaves.

Green onions fulfil all requirements for good eating being healthful, appetizing in appearance, flavor and aroma. Sow either White Spanish, White Portugal or Silverskin Bunching.

A dozen or so seeds of Swiss Chard will give many cookings of fresh young leaves all winter and into late spring.

Leave space for later sowings, and space for transplant.

At the table (in contrast to bridge books), the tapparium ties to make spectacular plays arise intrequently on occasion, however, the opportunity does present itself, as can be evidenced in today's deal.

Sitting West was Theodore Lightner of New-York City. At the age of 78, Lightner is still considered to be one of the world's greatest rubberbridge game in 1938, Both sides vulnerable. West deals.

A diamond would then have been returned, with the hope that West would be forced to win this trick. With East's queen and West's acc falling on the second diamond lead. Jummy's four remaining diamonds would now be winners. But Lightner rose to the occasion, to snatch the victory.

Harry nodded. "Yes. I'm enlarging our filed patio. Luckity I was able to get more of the same 6-inch square tiles."

Lightner, in the West seat, now had a discard to make. There was no doubt in West's mind that South, for his leap to three notrump, had just; about every outstanding high card. As West viewed the situation, the detenders' sole hope or defeating South's game-contract rested in East's possession of the diamond queen;

THE MEN FROM SHILOH. 7:30 p.m. Channel 5 (RERUN). "Lady at the Bar." The guest list for this episode is from the ton drawer, headed by Greer Garson, and including £. G. Marshall and James Whitnore. As a result, the story is one of the better-production of the season. NEWS SPECIAL: WHEN JOHNNY COMES MARCHING HOME, 9:30 p.m., Channel 4. The crucial readjustment to civilian-life faces the returning veteran from South Vietnam in a period considered far more frustrating and difficult than in any post-war cra of the country's history. There is a major unemployment factor, compounded by the fact that so many of the returning veterans were too young to have started a eareer, or learned trades prior to induction. The news special shows some of the steps taken to help these vets.

YOUR HEALTH Dr. Walter Alvarez

I was interested to see that Dr. Philip Eibel of Montreal, Canada, recently reported his observations of patients complaining of periodic attacks of rectal pain. A stabbing pain, lasting 5 to 15 minutes, would awaken the patient from a sound sleep and then subside quickly, but no sign of disease in that area could be found. As Dr. Eibel says, though painful, it seems to be harmless and tends to diminish with age.

Like Dr. Eibel, I have seen a number of these patients and have written about them over the years. In many cases, by the time they came to me, they had had their coccyx (the little "tall bone" at the end of the spine) removed by a surgeon, without getting any relief from the pain. I always had such patients carefully studied by the rectal specialists, and they never found anything physically wrong.

carefully studied by the recter specialists, and they never found anything physically wrong.

Often the person complaining about a tender coccys was a hypersensitive person or a constitutionally frail person, and my impression with these people has always been that they had a nervous trouble with the origin in the brain or spinal cord. Or the person may have had some tendency to arthritis. For treatment, I had used sedatives and pain relieving drugs. De. Ethel says that inhalations of Amyl nitrite, or the use of a bowel relaxer such as Donnatal, may help.

Donnatal, may help. For many years we doctors assumed that traveler's diarrhea, commonly called "turista" (from Spanish wood-for tourist), or "Montezuma's revenge", or "Delhi belly", was due to amebiasis, an intestation of the colon and the liver with a single-celled parasite. Often, when we studied the stools of persons who had traveled in Central American or India or Africa, we often found a number of amphas. number of amehas.

As many an unhappy traveler knows, "turista" is an acute, short-lasting diarrhea that rarely lasts longer than three days and commonly lasts for only one night. The person may feel so miserable that for a few hours or days he would rather die than go on uffering. But in perhaps 12 hours the trouble passes, and he is each to normal.

Some years ago, I lost faith in the idea that turista is due to an ameba, and for several reasons. One was that back in 1907 and 1909 4 lived in Mexico and never had any diarrhea. About 1915, long after I had returned to San Francisco to practice, it occurred to me that as I had seen so many Central Americans with diarrhèa and amebiasis, I ought to have my stool examined for amebas; I did this, and my good friend, the professor of tropical diseases at the University of California; said he had never seen as had an intestinal infestation with amebias as I had; But, as I said, I had ato symptoms, and had never had any diarrhea. Naturilly, I took appropriate medicine and quickly got rid of the amebias. The only change I noted was that I immediately lost some treplacities of the hladder that had apparently been produced by the parasites:

After having gotten rid of my amebas, I went to Mexico City for a medical meeting, and the night I arrived there I had a severe diarrhea which almost certainly was due, not to amebas, but to a virus because next morning I was well. I became inherested in the idea that turists was due to a virus, and I noticed that during the 30 years while I was travelling around the United States (where it was "safe to drink the water") I had a few spells of the same violent diarrhea which, had I been in a tropical country; would have been called turists.

Later, I read the report of good studies made in the University Medical School in Mexico City which confirmed my theory that turista is due to a virus and not to amebas. Soon another medical study was made of "exchange students" who had gone to several countries in Europe. It was found that more of the students who went to Southern Europe than to Northern Europe had the spells, from which one might conclude that perhaps viruses are more prevalent in hot climates than in cold climates. That turista can be epidemic, even in cold climates, was shown one night when, in one of the Rochester, Minnesota hospitals, about half of the nurses were knocked out by a brief turista-like diarrhea.

The important thing to remember is that in this day of rapid air-travel, when a person can fly from New York to San Francisco, and from there to Hawati or to the Orient, he will meet with many new viruses along the way viruses for which his hody has not built up defenses. As a result he may have to spend the co, and from there to Hawah or to the Orient, he will meet with many new viruses along the way viruses for which his hody has not built up defenses. As a result he may have to spend the night in the bathroom, and then perhaps, feel miserable for a day or two. But with our medical knowledge, if he gets turista in the United States or in Europe or in Mexico, he need not be afraid; it is likely to be gone the next morning and it does no permanent harm and needs no treatment.

OTTAWA (CP) - Traffic accidents may kill more than 70 Canadians during the coming Labor Day weekend, the Canada Sefety Council said today

The restriction is based on the poor Lahor Day nerformance of Canadian fiftyers during past Labor, Day weekends, the council said in a news-release.

Over the last 10 Labor Day weekends, the council said, 783 people died in traffic accidents and some 25,000 were injured. The highest number of people killed in any one Labor Day weekend was 192. in 1966. Last year, 74 people were killed.

Phil Farmer, director of the safety council, said that per-sons who think such statistics song who think such statistics are distractful or even ghou-lish "are the very people who, should need the warning, be-cause they are the ones who close their eves to the nu-merous accident-producing sit-uations that are part of every-day driving."

MONTREAL (CP) - The number of layoffs expected in Quebec because of the recent 10-per-cent sunvienmentary 10-per-cent sun-lementary duty on imports into the U.S. has not materialized, a Que-bec labor department spokesman said Tuesday.

Some $4 billion worth of Quebec exports to the U.S. this year will be liable for the surcharge, making it hard for Quebec to compete with U.S. made goods on the American market.

Gaetan Belleville, director of the Quebec labor depart-ment's manpower services, said the department thought employers would use the sur-charge as an excuse to lay off employees they were really letting go for other reasons.

"We just can't understand il. We were sure there'd be an avalanche of layoffs when Nixon announced his poli-cies." he said.

Car Exhaust Rules Issued

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Environmental Protection Agency Monday issued regulations to require auto-makers to tell car owners how to maintain air poliution control eystems on their cars.

The regulations, originally proposed May 17, 1971, would take effect in the 1972 model year but the main provisions would not be effective until the following year.

They would require manufacturers to provide informa-tion on the maintenance of exhaust, crankesse and eva-porative-emission control systems and on ways to correct, maifunctions.

The EPA has authority under the Clean Air Act to ensure that motor vehicles are in compliance with federal law throughout the vehicle's useful life. Useful life for regular cars is defined as five-years or 50,000 miles.

Some new light on West-moreland's own thinking at the time he was the U.S. commander in South Vietnam is provided in the new report. The recently disclosed Pentagon papers already have revealed that U.S. military desires to carry the ground war into North Vietnam were blocked in 1967-1968.

The new report, centred on Westmoreland, and published in the quarterly magazine. Foreign Policy, is a section of a senior honors theses by John Henry II of Harvard University. As a student, Hepry interviewed many of the principals who planned the war.

DYNAMIC SWITCH

In the wake of the massive Communist 'Tet assault on South Vietnam's cities in early 1968, Westmoreland was urged by his military superiors in Washington 'to plan for the worst contingency," the report states. Out of this planning came the celebrated request for 206,000 additional U.S. troops, which is still a subject of running controversy.

To Westmoreland, however, the Tet offensive was more of a "golden opportunity" than a cause for grief, supplying the rationale to shift from "creeping escalation" to a more "dynamic strategy."

To the American joint chiefs of staff (as the Pen-Plagor papers also relate), the Tet offensive provided a new argument for a call-up of reserves, which President Johnson constantly opposed.

Westmoreland hoped to use strengthened forces to strike at Communist "sanctuaries" in Laos and Cambodia, and to la unch "amphibious-airmobile operations against North Vietnamses bases just north of the DMZ (demilitarized zone). The report quotes Westmoreland as explaining later:

PCB Defies Region; Issues Dump Permit

The Pollution Control Branch today issued a permit for the dumping of refuse on 70 gcres in Langford.

The permit covers the operation by Glen Raymond, manager of Millstream Sanitary Lendrill at 2015 Millstream, which has been called a fire, pollution and health hazard at meetings of the Capital Regional District. Raymond has denied the charges.

He applied last April for a permit to discharge an average of 500 cubic yards a day of rubbish.

The permit which has been issued allows discharge of 500 cubic yards per day from industrief; commercial and domestic sources on a landfill basis.

Conditions attached to the permit require: No open hurning on the site;

Fire guard around fill area;

Adequate water supply for fire-fighting purposes; Covering fill material at least once every three weeks non-combustible material;

 Discharge of hog fuel restricted to dry areas not subject to flooding or erosion due to run-off;

· No discharge of refuse in burned-out sections of the Diversion of surface run-off around fill-area;

Provision of storage and treatment of any contami-nated seepage or run-off from the fill area;

Separate dumping area for stumps and officer bulky land-clearing debris;

 No septic tank pump-out waste to be discharged; Inorganic sludge to be discharged on site in thin layers at a rate which will not cause or contribute to surface or ground water contamination:

The permit was issued by W. N. Venshies, director of the Pollution Control Branch of the provincial lands, forest and water resources department. He has power to amend vary or rescind file permit at any time.

The application was opposed by the fish and wildlife branch of the recreation and conservation department and by time B.C. health department.

Four others commented or objected but could not be recognized by the pollution control director under the legislation. They were senior medical health officer Dr. J. L. Whithread, regional district engineer Bill Gerry, Langford tire chief A. E. LeQuesne and Marshal Antonelli, Iorest ranger at Langford.

Dump manager Raymond say today the conditions laid down in the permit are "acceptable to me."

Asked if he is complying with these conditions, he said "there are a couple of things we have to catch up on" but he was meeting most of them.

On open burning, he said there is one fire "and that is being taken care of." The dump had "never accepted septic tank waste," he said.

Well, anyway, much to my supprise, having had some sport with mine hosts after a luncheon there. I was invited back with a hearty show of good feflowship all around. It is now evident to me that husinessmen are very good at taking absolutely any joke that doesn't cost them money.

Writers are notoriously unkind to writers are notoriously unkind to businessmen, probably as a defen-sive mechanism to justify the iner-faciency and disorganization of their haphazard methods (Sinclair Lewis, for example, created Babbitt as the most enduring, most hateful proto-type, but Lewis couldn't add up a dinner cheek and often forgot to put on his sceles in the morning. on his socks in the morning.)

It is also true that businessi ers operate and this, as we shall see, became abundantly clear at the Union Club.

Once again I was the guest of R,
J., Top Management, and present, as well, were The Advertising Man and The Banker. This time, however, we were joined by the man I will refer to simply as The Efficiency Expert, a chap with such a knowing, piercing gaze that I was jolly glad mother had sewn my shin-plasters to my-

Normally my reaction to this would simply be to strike viciously at the man with my gold-headed walking stick, but I had left it in the vestibule; and, besides, it seemed a good chance to explore once more the executive mind at work.

I favored the Efficiency Expert with a profile view of the tic that pulses under my left eye, nervously brushed the imaginary lint from my lapels and bade him continue. "Con-tinue," I said, dimpling.

"Three little columns per week," the Efficiency Expert said, wonderingly. "Why, I dictate more than that every day before lunch."

less fresh idea each day, the rope on which to string the wooden beads, and mentioned the perils of snow blindness which afflicts so many columnists facing the unsoiled waste of copy-paper on those days when the idea isn't there. It was mixing metaphors, but I didn't care.

The Efficiency Expert drew a genuine silver pencil from his breast-pocket and began to mark figures on the table-cloth, a thing I had seen before only in movies.

"How far are you ahead with your columns?" he asked,

"Sometimes I am an entire day ahead." I said, defen-sively, like a man trying to establish a credit rating, "and as recently as 1965 I was two entire columns ahead."

"Just as I thought," the Expert cried. "You aren't going at it in a business-like way. Now" — he began to write rapidly on the table cloth with his genuine silver pencil — "Your yearly average for columns, allowing for the customary three week vacation, would be 147 columns, right?"

"If you say so," I said, "but it's an exhausting thought."

"Let us say, now, that you were to write two columns each and every day for a year, right? That would mean that you would do 730 columns in a year which would give you a surplus of 583 columns. In 10 years you would have accumulated a stock-pile of 5,830 columns — or nearly 39 years

"Good God!" I said.

"How old are you?" the Expert asked,

I told him. He scratched some more figures on the table

"Right! On this recommended schedule when you reach the age of 65 you will have enough columns written to keep appearing in the paper until you are 102 years of age — without Wilting another line!"

"It's frightening," I said.

There is no reason in the world why you shouldn't produce two a day, but if you could write three a day or 1.095 columns per year — then, at the age of 60 you would be able to retire, but still have your columns appearing for the next 40 years!"

"It boggles the imagination," I said

"How long's it take you to write a column?" The Efficiency Expert asked, caught up in the miracle he was creating.

"Welt," I said, "not counting the incubation of the idea, it generally takes six to eight hours. Most of this time is spent watching the construction of the new Victoria Press building next door, walking back and forth to the soft-drink machine and eating Eberhard Faber Ebony pencils."

"All that would go if you applied business principles to your operation," he said. "Waste motion, as our time studies show, is the root of inefficient production. You must program yourself to a planned output—let's say 500 words per hour. The man with the definite objective is the man who gets the job done."

"I know a writer who only wrote one word in three days," I said, in my defence," and that was the word 'the'. You should come by and watch Arthur Mayse some time. There are days when it takes Arthur an hour and a half to roll the paper in his machine. This is the way we all are."

"All pretence," snapped the Efficiency Expert. "Any businessman could organize your kind of writing just as he organized an accounting office. I wouldn't be at all surprised, in fact, if the whole operation couldn't be computerized."

Well, I'd have killed him right there, but, of course, there are certain things you just don't do in the Union Club, curve, south ends and north hegins, But I'm not sure where the division occurs.

There are hints of the north in Prince George, a city that was still a town when we last travelled that way. The sense of going north comes on more strongly where the Peace River carves its gash across the high golden prairies that roll out and away from its magnificent escurpments,

At Dawson Creek, where the Alaska Highway starts de-ceptively on blacktop in ranch and farmland, we added a bug and farmland, we added a bug screen to our car rigging. It would ward off the devil's own plenty of insects that might otherwise find lodging in the rudiator grill. But that wasn't its chief purpose, the garageman explained. When the gravel began to fly, it would offer some protection from the stone ricochets off the hood that crack wind-shields.

We crossed to Alberta in dank early morning tog by the Spirit River Boad, noting that our neighbor province offers the pilgrim a bordersign welcome much warmer than British Columbia's terse announcement. More miles the fact that his car was alover good blacktop, more ready packed with wife and towns with gaupt elevators to lend them skylines. Then we were in Grimshaw, with one phase of the trip completed and another eboult to begin. The state of the completed and another eboult to begin.

Grinshaw is a stegging area for the big diesel transports that serve the north. The town is home base for one fleet of freighters. Others pass through on the long hauf from Edmonton to Yellowknife, or take time out with engines rumbling in idie.

I put our car, a dwarf

I put our car, a dwarf among giante, in for a grease job. We strolled across to the chunky stone cairn that marks the start of the Mackenzie Highway.

Cabin that a trapper had bont above the Peace before dam, lake or road intruded upon his boy hat flashed a grin.

"Take you as fat as High Level," the driver called, possibly assuming that here also twere a well-matured hitch-hiker and his squirrel. Then, something powerful enough to with a cheerful disregard for the powerful enough to with a cheerful disregard for the powerful enough to with a cheerful disregard for the peace before dam, lake or road intruded upon his wesome solitude.

From Grimshaw on life would be starner. We had come to the Mackenzie Highway, and an hour or two farshaw and have an hour or two farshaw

We were north, all right, where the hospitality runs hearty. We accepted the gosture, if not the offer, as a good portent for the miles ahead.

At this stage in our unhur-ried progress, we had been three days and a bit on coads from which we had diverged a time or two.

a time or two.

We had turned off course, me growling and grumbling, for a look at the Remett dam and Williston Lake hottled behind that monstrous rockwork. On the way out, we had taken a lunch break by a log cabin that a trapper had built above the Peace hefore dam, lake or road intruded upon his awesome solitude.

Bear? The young men in a tour-wheel drive vehicle loaded with shed moose antiers had seen a black hear and her cubs not far away.

By this time too we had settled into a picasant routine of early starts, mid-morning breaks for thermos coffee, and lunches heated over our compact one-burner propane stove on picnic-site tables. At the stop by the hear's ten, Win emptied a can of stew into a succepan and set it on to bubble.

We enjoyed those outdoor interludes, and found them re-freshing. They took very little time. Even the longest and laziest cost us only 40 min-
